Coleman Notes

Bernard Boosler was up from Pincher Creek on Sunday last.

J. B. Nicklin came up from Lethbridge on Monday on a visit to friends.

W. Simpson and Miss M. Simpson, of Frank, attended the hockey match here on Saturday night.

George C. Eng, local manager for the International Correspondence Schools, at Fernie, B.C., was in town last week end.

A resident of Oatville located the distance from Blairmore to Oatville on Friday last in the remarkable time of three hours and nineteen minutes. Not so bad for a four mile walk.

Clark's pictures are attracting unusually large audiences here, and the opera house is crowded two and three nights a week. Saturday night's films were excellent, and the two piece orchestra added no small part to the enjoyment of the show.

Coleman played Lethbridge hockey on Saturday night, and won by a score of 8-2. Spence Lewis, from Blairmore and J. A. Macleod, from Frank, played for Coleman and did splendid work. H. Gate was on the gate.

There will be a scrapping party in Coleman on Saturday next. Ladies will please remember the hours 5 a.m. to 12 p.m., and be sure not to forget their brushes, sponges and towels. Pins of meeting, Coleman Miner office. All ladies who are aware of the necessity and importance of the scheme are invited to attend without fail. Tea will be served throughout the day.

The following which was handed in by Alex. McLean, was received too late for last issue:

The annual meeting of the Central Baptist church was held on Wednesday evening, February 18, and was attended by a large number of the members of the church and congregation. The chair was occupied by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Hunter.

Reports were read of an encouraging character of the different departments of church work. A McLean, church secretary retiring, gave a report of the membership, which showed an increase of 75 per cent. for the year. The present membership is now forty-two, eighteen of whom had joined the church during the year. A. E. Cheshire, treasurer, dealt with the finances. The church had raised $1,124.30 towards pastor's salary and local expenses. This amount did not include $400.00 that had been raised toward the reduction of the church debt, the collecting and reasonability of which was undertaken by two of the ladies of the church, Mrs. Shanes, J. Padon and F. M. Plunkett. The debt against the church property is now only $600.00 and an arrangement has been made with the bank to gradually reduce it and wipe it out.

In report of the Ladies Mission Circle was given by Miss A. Smith, which showed progress and increased membership and contributions. The Ladies' Auxiliary had no special report but were holding their meetings as usual and continued to be an effective working force in the church.

The Sunday school report showed that attendance increased as the months passed. This department had been started during during the year and was very promising. The election of officers for the year resulted as follows: Secretary, J. Hamer; Treasurer, A. E. Cheshire; Board of Deacons, J. J. Thomas, F. M. Plunkett and J. Hamer. Mrs. Page accepted the duties as organist in place of Arthur Cheshire. A short programme, musical and otherwise was rendered. After refreshments were served a pleasant evening was brought to a close.

A poem and some interesting items are crowded out of this issue.

BLAIRMORE IS A TOWN OF GREAT RESOURCES AND GOLDEN OPPORTUNITIES

Unusual Activity Prevails In the "Commercial Centre of The Pass"

More Buildings Will Be Erected—Business Places Will Be Increased—More Manufacturers Will Establish Businesses Here

GRAND OPENINGS FOR MORE INDUSTRIES

Blairmore Has Raw Material for Sash and Door Factory, Iron Works, Pulp and Paper Mills Etc. and Has the Finest Townsite in

The Pass-Room for Many More Desirable Citizens

Spring is fast approaching and with it there already seems to be more than usual activity around Blairmore. Many are preparing to build, some are about to enlarge their business and others are getting things in readiness for new industries which are about to be established here and about which we shall have more to say shortly.

We all know about the remarkable strides of progress which struck this town the year before last and which have prepared right up to the present time. It can be truly said that no town up to three times its size in Alberta has experienced the prosperity that Blairmore has enjoyed during the past eighteen months. By the present general appearance of things around this busy town the prosperity which will attend Blairmore during 1911 will even far exceed that of the previous year.

The great importance of "The Commercial Centre of The Pass" is quickly becoming more and more realized and the splendid products of our several large manufacturing concerns are helping considerably to establish this fact.

There is still room for many more industries such as steam laundry, sash and door factory, iron works, pulp mills, Blairmore has the raw material for the above. Blairmore is the centre of this district, has the best townsite in The Pass and therefore affords splendid sites for those as well as many other good industries. There is also ample room for several more thousand desirable home seekers, and we extend an invitation to those who desire to locate in the best town in this district and live amongst some of the most enterprising, most industrious and best people on earth, to become citizens of the flourishing town of Blairmore.

Fire in the Little Hotel

A fire occurred at the Little hotel on Wednesday morning, which would have had serious results had not prompt measures been taken. All the rooms were filled with dense smoke, and bartender Batt, to whom great credit is due, noticing that the building was in imminent danger, at once rang the fire alarm bell which caused a hurried rush of the manager and waiters to the scene, who took immediate action to extinguish the fire and fortunately was soon got under control before much damage was done.

Points For Mothers

We mothers get so tired, says Frances Ingalls, author of "The Mother". We would if life is all to be like this. If we must always worry over John's shoes, or father's coat, or the winter's coal, or where the rent money is coming from—and then the wrinkles and toll worn hands and care. We have to work hard, too—when we're tired. Life seems so no worth while when we look back upon those things we meant to do and to be and we think how far we have "failed" in the realization. Life to us seems such a sordid thing beside the "other world".

But when the light comes, when the mouselike boyish feet are still, when mischievous little hands are quiet; when baby lips drowsily murmur "good night, m'mer," as little arms slip from about our neck—then we know that the other woman whose life is all care and sullen luxury would give up her quiet twilight hour, would sell all her priceless jewels for—just once—to feel encircling baby arms about her neck and we know we are rich beyond compare.

And we think of the time when the haloed, angelic feet are still, when mischievous the care and worry and frets are all forgot, and we lie down in peace, thanking God for the humble toll and sowing that will bear such golden harvests on the "by and by."

Children's Clothing.
Children's clothing is always a problem for the mother who keeps them at home. But even the baby may profit by the suggestions here given. For his or her imperial majesty a creeping cradle may be made by stitching an extra piece of material, 10 by 6 inches, to the center of a cradle. Add a strip of cloth for a backrest, and gather the ends and corners the care and worry and frets are all forgot, and we lie down in peace, thanking God for the humble toll and sowing that will bear such golden harvests on the "by and by."

"Not that I know of," said Wiggles. "If it had been I think we should have seen the old screw holes in the place where it had been, and as for failing to notice it, I know it hadn't done that, because there was a very fragile thinness, and if it had failed, sometime there would have been signs of fracture at least, even if the whole thing had not been shattered to pieces. Don't worry about it anyhow. I fastened it on my own body, myself, and four-squares—it can hardly come loose that is, not all at once."

"Henry Wiggles," roared the lady's voice, growing more and more severe and having about it certain qualities of sharpness. "Do you mean to tell me that the master of your house is actually a burglar?"

"Oh, for heaven's sake!" replied Wiggles, lighting the fire at last. "It comes from the bulb at the base of the thermometer up to the top. Where did you get it?"

The conversation stopped.

Later in the day Mrs. Dubbs met Wiggles with his head bandaged upon his way to catch the trolley, ambling sweetly along.

"Ah, here's Wiggles," said she archly.

"Mrs. Wiggles been taking the broomstick to you that you have your head bandaged up?"

"No, madam," said Wiggles coldly.

"We use various cements,"

"We use various cements,"

"I started in very warm this morning, didn't it?"

"You bet it did!" said Wiggles as he moved on. "Some cloudy too."—Harpers Weekly.

MARRIED TO A PURIST.

Wiggles and Wife as Overboard by the

Milady's Mirror

Some people show a strange indifference to the care of their nose, which has been termed "the nose of a king." It is a little instrument made of metal, glass and mercury designed to show degrees of heat and cold. It is a simple and inexpensive little contrivance, and no home should be without one.

"How," called Mrs. Wiggles from upstairs, addressing Mr. Wiggles, who had got up early to start the furnace, "what's the thermometer?"

"Same as usual, my dear," Mr. Wiggles replied, calling up through the fine. "It is a little instrument made of metal, glass and mercury designed to show degrees of heat and cold. It is a simple and inexpensive little contrivance, and no home should be without one."

"I mean what does it say?" returned Mrs. Wiggles, with an expression of countenance which, not having been seen, can only be imagined.

"It does not say anything, my love," replied Mr. Wiggles, brushing some hair from her shoulder. "It is a photographic attachment operated by a delicate adjusted device of some sort to get the exact temperature which you desire."

"You know what I mean," retorted Mrs. Wiggles, somewhat stridently.

"Where is the thermometer?" asked Mr. Wiggles, with a look of inquiry.

"It is just where we left it last night," returned Wiggles, "across the floor, to the left hand jam of the front door. I fancy that if it had not been screwed on it would have disappeared long ago. Where did you think it was?"

"Has it risen or fallen?" demanded Wiggles.

"Not that I know of," said Wiggles. "If it had risen I think we should have seen the old screw holes in the place where it had been, and as for failing to notice it, I know it hadn't done that, because there was a very fragile thinness, and if it had failed, sometime there would have been signs of fracture at least, even if the whole thing had not been shattered to pieces. The Loved and Lost Hint.

Walker—the bride was quite a popular girl, wasn't she?

Watkinson—Yes indeed. The Evening Standard is most sportive man to report the wedding. He printed a list of related names, half human and half of stock. Among them was a small town girl, who also ran.

"What is the name of the girl?"

"Alice," Wiggles said archly.

"Mrs. Wiggles been taking the broomstick to you that you have your head bandaged up?"

"No, madam," said Wiggles coldly.

Pains That Make Misery.

A Talk With Our Lady Readers.

Have you ever had a little headache and under the little head, mind aches make one? A stinging cut, badly-chapped hands, a nasty burn, a sore foot, a pinched finger—one of these woes, or ailments, ever likely to cause serious trouble, which come to every woman—and man, too—and are just sufficient to take the edge off one's appetite, give one

Zam-Buk is just the thing at such times. As soon as you put it on a sore, a cut, a burn, or any skin injury, it begins to draw the blood, and start up healing. Don't make the mistake that because Zam-Buk is widely used by medical men for burns and for certain skin diseases and accidents, that it is only good for serious cases. Keep it handy and use it immediately you get some trivial trouble.

Mrs. Chay, of Newmarket, Ontario, Road, Truro, N.S., says: "I had an ingrowing toe nail, which caused me much suffering. Some time ago I never could sleep. In fact, I was advised to have the toe pulled off. I was so bad that I feared blood-poisoning had set in. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and I did, and the sore was gone in a day or two. I took the toe off and continued the treatment. The result is that today the toe is sound and there is no more trouble with it. I have no more trouble with it, and I would strongly recommend it to every housewife."

Zam-Buk is just the thing, too, for burns, scalds, cuts, insect bites, sunburn, ringworm, and various skin diseases. Sold everywhere at 50¢ a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price.

One day, after he had seen his mother's several million questions, she said to him, "Jimmy, for pity's sake, don't you know that erysipelas killed a cat?"

"I don't know," he replied, "but it is an easy matter to purchase an atomizer, get a prescription from a doctor and see that the nose is easily washed out. If one does not care to go to a doctor, the best remedy is to wash the nose with a small glass nose douche shaped like a duck and use warm water with a solution of salt in it.

MORE PINKHAM CURES

Added to the Long List due to This Famous Remedy.

Glenford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for years and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of the uterus, and nothing else would do me any good. I suffered dreadfully until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It also helped other women to whom I have recommended it."—Mrs. HENRY COOPER, Glenford, Ontario.

Gardiner, Me.—"I was a great sufferer from a female disease. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me in three months."—Mrs. S. A. WILLIAMS, R. F. D. No. 14, Gardiner, Maine.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a great help in many cases of female ills, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, headache, rheumatism, nervousness, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is world-wide.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

DISFIGURED FOR LIFE.

Mothers Should Realize What Neglect of Skin-Troubles May Mean to Children.

A lifetime of disfigurement and suffering often results from the neglect, in infancy and childhood, of minor afflictions of the skin and scalp.—A mother overhauled a little rash or sore on her child's head one day, perhaps the little one is covered with a severe eczema or a similar distressing eruption.

A multitude of remedies are tried, doctors after doctor consulted and hospitals visited, but the rash continues, becomes more and more substantial, relief from days to weeks, to months and months to years. Added to this is the fact that the skin becomes thickened and disfigured will become chronic, marking future welfare and making life miserable.

On the following morning a clerk suggested that the mistake might have been made in the treatment of the rash. He advised the mother to apply Cuticura Ointment, which was sent to Southampton for shipment. His chief action on the suggestion. Here was an opportunity to stop the progress of the disfigurement by lightning against steam and steam with forty-four hours the start. The very soon the telegraph asked "man" in Southampton, "Has the ship Mercator sailed?"

The answer came back, "Just weighing anchor."

"Stop her in the Queen's name," is the first bullet of the telegraph. "She is stopped," was returned.

"Have on deck certain boxes (marks given), weigh them carefully, and ascertain the result," telegraphed the chief.

This order was obeyed, and one box was found to be somewhere about one pound less than the weight of the others—just the weight of the missing sovereigns. "All right. Let the ship go!" was the next order.

Well, the ship was debited with one hundred pounds, and the Bank of England was at peace again.

Progress of Johannesburg.

If any one had written out the story of Johannesburg's rise and progress he would have been regarded as a burlesque hero. Venerable, for a city built up in the centre of South Africa in twenty years, to attract a quarter of a million settled population, and crowd enormous numbers of people within a single decade, sounds certainly more like imagination than fact. So does the arrangement by which she farms her black diamonds in a subterranean mine away, and runs special trains for them morning and night. But one secret of the town's success rests on her high altitude of 4000 feet above the sea level, and her nine hours of sunshine a day in perhaps the mildest and most equable climate in the world.

A Venturous Peer.

The adventures in strange lands of Lord Headley, who was sixty-five recently, would provide material for a story of one far-fetched tale.

An Irish peer, he has seen a great deal of soldiering. He fought in the Carlist wars, and went through the world with his rifle. When he joined the Army Corps. And he has made long journeys and explored the slopes of the Andes and the hinterland of Peru.

He is now in the Argentine, where he expected back from a shooting expedition in Mashonaland, a grisly story arrived of his having been cut to pieces by Maikulu savages. His home and wife are sound, while obituary notices of his career were still current.

DIAMOND DIGGING.

New Precious Stones Are Mined for Kimberley Workings.

Kimberley is a curious place, not beautiful either in itself or its surroundings, but it is the principal centre of the world's diamond supply, which it entirely controls, and also as the centre of a certain garrison which seems to pervade South Africa.

When the hard blue clay has been dug from the mine and spread out to dry, great numbers of native Africans are to be seen under the African sun, it is difficult to believe that diamond tiaras and necklaces are hiding in those uninviting fields behind their bare bodies. There is a certain rather lascivious quality in the actual extraction of the stones. The crushing of the clay in the great central "pulsaator," is noisy and unattractive, but when the finally crushed stones come pouring out of the huge machine, and is thrown in simple handfuls into the sloping tables down which it is washed by running water, the spirit of "shikar" of the chase, enters into the scene.

The stones are cleaned by the side of the tables and watch, you see the little throbbing shallow stream carrying down bits of iron pyrites and other nasties, and the stones are left at the bottom of the table.

The tables are covered with a coating of grease, but it does not seem able, to hold them together, the silent force of the water. Suddenly a little whitish object drops upon the top of the table with the rest of the handful, turns over, and sticks, the hand that holds it fails to dislodge it.

You look closely and see that it is a diamond—a clean, regularly shaped, eight-sided figure with one side slightly larger than the others. The smoothness of its surface or some other quality makes it cling to the grease, and the water fails to move it. A certain proportion of the rubbish also sticks.

After various processes the selected crushings are finally picked over and the diamond is washed off, set down for a long time, not green or sloped, and a sheet of white paper was put down before me. Upon this was placed a handful of blackish stuff, and with a pair of tweezers I set to work to pick out the diamonds. As a rule it is easy, as they are of fair size, quite regular in shape and coloring, or very slightly tinged with yellow, in a minute or two I had twenty.

But the stones are often irregular, or small, and the task is then the more difficult, the skill of an expert is required, and even an expert's eye is apt to get tired and dizzy, and nervous prostration, dizziness, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result is world-wide.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Welsh by Extraction

One of the foremost lawyers in England and Wales is Lord Halsbury, who was Lord Chancellor of the衡器 ministry. The following tells this story of his career at the bar:

He was once arguing a case on behalf of a Welshman, and showed great knowledge of the principality and its people.

"Come, come," said the judge at last, "you know you are Welshmen, make no mystery about it."

"Perhaps not," replied the barrister, "but I have made a great deal of money out of Welshmen."

"Well, then," replied the judge, "suppose we call you a Welshman by extraction?"

Miner's Liniment Cures Gout in Cows

The craving for tobacco is decreased after a smoker has climbed to a great height. Smoking under such circumstances is found to be somewhat laborious.

A Standard Medicine.—Purmele's Vegetable Liniment, composed of extracts of various plants known to have a reviving and salutary effect upon the digestive system, is a valuable remedy, and is a convenient form of a standard medicine. The salin should be applied to the skin. Simple and convenient, it can be assimilated by the weak, infirm, aged, and convalescent, and has a healthy and agreeable effect on the sluggish digestive organs.

Concrete Stairs Need No Repairs Easy to Build and Last Forever

NO matter how you view it wooden stairways can never be considered economical.

Wood deteriorates rapidly under ordinary usage, and requires frequent, and often extensive, repairs to keep it in good condition.

Concrete stairs will be as good fifty years later as the day they are first put up. Age, which proves so destructive to wood, serves only to intensify the strength and hardness of concrete. Needing no repairs or painting, concrete first cost is last cost.

Let us send you our new illustrated book free—"What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." Photographs and diagrams show many examples of concrete work as applied to the construction of farm utilities. Home Course In Health Culture

XII.—Home Care of the Eyes

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.
Copyright, 1912, by American Press Association.

We credit most our sight; one eye does
please,
Our trust far more than ten eye will please.

—Herrick.

If we agree with the hard headed, "only materialistic" philosopher who contended that "the heart secretes thought just as the heart secretes life," then indeed the eye is the "window of the soul." However, the eye is at least the window of the brain, and in most intimate relation with that organ as well as with the general body. It is well to remember that the eye reflects the thoughts of the individual. It is not so much the "window of the soul" as some people imagine. If the muscular tissue surrounding the eye were paralyzed the eye itself would have little power of expression.

Proper Illumination.

The best light for the eyes is natural light, and the eye at the expense of the bumble bee, although the literature, like the light, is not always of the best.

Probably the best quality of light for the eye is that of the cool oil lamp, provided a proper burner and shade are employed. The only objection to this light is the inconvenience of holding after it and the heat from its proximity.

The worst form of light is the flickering gas flame, which contains many yellow, irritating rays and is very objectionable on account of its unscientific nature. The Weisbach attachment overcomes these objections, but unless the degree of injury that results from errors of refraction depends upon the temperament and constitution of the individual as well as the extent of the error. Just as a little tobacco or alcohol will in some subjects produce a temporary improvement, so will slight refractive error in a person of unstable nervous organization cause a profound disturbance of the general health.

When a refractive error exists the clinician makes an effort to correct it, and the range of error is limited. The error is extreme if the patient thinks he has good eyesight. But a condition of tension exists in the mechanism of accommodation which will be reflected in a long train of nervous symptoms such as headaches, uneasiness in the eyes, especially, restlessness, etc. This is caused by an unduly long eyeball from before backward. The rays of light meet before they reach the retina. The cornea in such cases is usually abnormally convex.

Farsightedness.—This is caused by a short eyeball from behind forward. The rays of light fail to meet before they reach the retina.

In both of the above conditions a distorted image is formed, and glasses are required either for near or distant vision.

The degree of injury that results from errors of refraction depends upon the temperament and constitution of the individual as well as the extent of the error. Just as a little tobacco or alcohol will in some subjects produce a temporary improvement, so will slight refractive error in a person of unstable nervous organization cause a profound disturbance of the general health.

When a refractive error exists the clinician makes an effort to correct it, and the range of error is limited. The error is extreme if the patient thinks he has good eyesight. But a condition of tension exists in the mechanism of accommodation which will be reflected in a long train of nervous symptoms such as headaches, uneasiness in the eyes, especially, restlessness, etc. This is caused by an unduly long eyeball from before backward. The rays of light meet before they reach the retina. The cornea in such cases is usually abnormally convex.

If the eye were a lifeless optical instrument any passenger would be qualified to test it and with a little training could prescribe correct glasses. As the eye is a living organ it should be tested by a doctor. Referring to that fact and by a physician who can test eye conditions as a whole and not alone the optical conditions which have been created by a combination of the refractive error and the patient's effort to correct it. By certain drugs the accommodation of the patient is overcome, and the error of refraction is revealed. The morse is not to mix with the "window of your brain" by putting some man on the street it you wish glasses. You will save money and health by going to the "man who knows," a physician trained to the work.

When glasses are required, they should be worn—the earlier the better. Some people keep away from the oculist just as they keep away from the dentist, paying dearly in the end.

Bathing the Eyes.

Ordinarily the eyes are kept clean by the action of the mechanical glands, but when bathing the eyes in bed it may injure them, not simply the physician "do not believe in it" but for very definite reasons. The body is often held in a strained position with the head bent forward, causing congection of the eyes. The habit of holding the head in a strained position little injury will result. Probably adult bookworms will continue to read in bed and "scrunch" themselves up in all kinds of strained positions in their ordinary chairs notwithstanding the warmth of eye strain, and in its train of ill, will continue to distract them.

But with children a correct position and light supply while writing or reading is really of vital importance. The value of a good lamp, and the use of a chair which is not too high or too low, will result.

A LARGE AND WELL EQUIPPED MINE PLANT

Canadian Coal Consolidated, Ltd., Will Have One of the Best Plants in the West—Will Erect Steel Tipple, Build Coke Ovens, Add Large Wash House and Double Present Generating Plant.

On Tuesday evening last a representative of this paper had the pleasure of being shown the entire plant of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, Ltd., Frank. Mr. A. Muller, the general manager of the company, accompanied us and we were greatly surprised at the magnitude of the plant as well as the neat and attractive appearance it presented.

To give anything like a full description of this immense plant would require a great deal more space than what is at our disposal but we cannot refrain from making a brief description of same.

The mechanical surface department of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, Limited, is very complete and has even more capacity than the actual needs near the shaft there is a ventilating fan running at a high speed of 1,700 revolutions per minute. This fan is located in the main entrance of the mine. The air is drawn through the mine by a series of eight boilers. Two of them are old return tubular terramean workings 300 feet below the surface.

The furnish steam for the hoisting machine. It is more steam heated as well as the convenient to use this machine wash house, and everything is done for the comfort of the workmen. These generators also furnish and well being of the workmen. Steam is heated to the Company's With this end in view it is the buildings. The electric light intention of the general manager and power plant consists of the generator to be erected in the near following apparatus: First, in future a modern wash house the boiler room they have four individual units of water tube up-to-date type. Mr. Muller boilers of the Badcock & Wilcox type, also intends to add 100 feet to the present power house when a new generating plant will be duplicated. Fifty coke ovens of Sterling water tube ovens of the Salvoy type will also be erected this summer. The gas from these ovens will be utilized in heating the building, while the tar will be used in making bricks.

The economy of this company is remarkable, yet they attend to their comfort and convenience of their employees to such an extent that the employees of the company have no cause to complain.

As soon as the weather will permit, work will be commenced on the Company's new steel tipple which will be of the Venot type and which will be erected behind No. 1 shaft. This tipple will be the first of its kind in the Pass and will have a capacity of 2,500 tons of coal per day.

In the near future another shaft will be sunk that will tap a seam of coal that is practically inexhaustible and that has hitherto been untouched.

The town of Frank is to be congratulated that they have such an enterprising Company in their midst, for we believe that the Frank mines of the Canadian Coal Consolidated, Limited, are as well equipped as any mines in the West.

P. V. Galway Leaves

F. V. Galway, head electrician for the Canadian Coal Consolidated, left on Monday with his wife and child for Isle of Wight. Mr. Galway, superintended the installation of the electric plant here during which time he often complained of pain in his hip and was many times advised to take a rest, but he kept constantly at his post until the work was completed. Then he decided to go to the hospital. The doctor examined his leg and it was found that it had a cancer which would necessitate the amputation of the left leg at the hip. This was indeed sad for a man who was so plucky as to stay with the job so long for the conveniences of those for whom he worked. He has now gone home to attend the hospital and await the unpleasant result, much to the regret of the Canadian Coal Consolidated as well as numerous other friends.
